As humans, we exist in multiple levels of consciousness. As spiritual beings, we are always connected to the creator who constantly breathes life into us and into all of creation. What is our role and responsibility in that relationship? As unique individuals we are continually evolving. How do we make space for the newness of who we are becoming? Then, how do we step back and create space for evolution of the other? Within the context of the Ten Sefirot, the energies of the Tree of Life, we will begin to look at ways to navigate the various dimensions of our lives toward greater awareness and balance.

Join us to explore the treasures that are there for us today in this ancient wisdom.
